

Canyon Drive by Tanner Wells

Western artist, Tanner Wells, has painted an original piece of work specifically for the Youth Activities Fundraiser to be held on Wednesday evening at the TSSRM Annual Meeting in Beaumont. The painting, "Canyon Drive", will be on display during the day on Wednesday and will be silent auctioned through the evening mixer on Wednesday night. This painting is valued at several thousand dollars and is an extremely gracious donation to furthering the range and natural resource education of the youth in Texas. You can view his bio and other works of art at www.tannerwells.com This is an excellent opportunity for western art collectors, college range departments, agency directors, etc to obtain an original piece of art while supporting the development of tomorrow's range managers. Please make plans to bid on this one-time opportunity.

"A native Texan, Tanner Wells has spent most of his life living on a ranch. The western way of life has always been instilled in him. Tanner Wells' early experiences on the ranch still influence his life today. He currently lives with his wife and family on their ranch in Central Texas."
